

Global disparities in gender equality in education continue to persist.

Today, there are 250 million children out of school.

In some countries, many children cannot read even a single word after several years of schooling.

Relevant, quality education is a human right.

Do you believe that every learner, regardless of their background, should have access to the highest quality educational content, tools, and methodologies that are tailored to their local context, and delivered by knowledgeable and compassionate professionals?

We have a lot of work to do!

What can you do?

- Learn the basics about Open Education and Open Educational Resources (OERs)
- Tell others why OERs are important and the impact they have on global education
- Get aligned with Open values
- Check if your education investments are aligned with global priorities
